All About Lean Practitioner & Lean Guide Certification Program

Why this program?
Professionals in any domain must invest time and effort in supporting value creation. They also need to coach and mentor teams to develop their problem solving abilities. While this program is a “must do” for people in improvement roles, it is highly valuable for anyone having interests in analysing and improving process outcomes.

Lean Practitioner & Lean Guide Program Overview
While Lean Six Sigma Green Belt and Black Belt programs by Benchmark do cover fundamental lean training, the Lean Practitioner & Lean Guide Program covers advanced Lean tools and methods for practical application in service sector organizations. These tools enable a professional to view business as a value stream, identify bottlenecks and risks and implement solutions to address them.

Training Methodology
- Online training begins with an overview of Lean basics and its interfaces with other approaches like Six Sigma.
- Online quizzes and a simulation game bring clarity about Lean thinking and core concepts of Lean Management.
- Participants learn all lean concepts and techniques mostly with a sequence of understanding a challenge, applying a method, reflecting on the application.
- Value stream mapping (VSM) shall be undertaken with advanced inputs. There are exercises that make one think about identification of improvement areas through VSM.
- Online sessions involve live discussions, Q&A sessions, case-lets to help participants understand and retain concepts.
- The online sessions utilize a DMAIC sequence for lean practitioner and provide a structured problem solving sequence.
- The workshop provides advanced inputs for people to work as coaches for implementation teams.
- A detailed quiz is scheduled on last day to confirm the understanding of all participants.

Workshop orientation and continued support
Participants are advised to join the Benchmark Six Sigma Forum. It is recommended that each participant initiates at least one discussion in the group. This not only helps in orienting oneself but also in enhancement of cross industry awareness and appreciation of diverse views that exist.

Post Workshop
- Participants can continue exploring application of advanced lean tools by accessing our lean case study repositories.
- Participants can post questions on our past participant support forum, and our experts will answer them for you.

Course Duration
Lean Practitioner (LP) and Lean Guide (LG) is an 8 session program with each session being 120 minutes duration.

Certification Requirements
The course assessment shall be carried out in two segments.
